Alex Weisberg is a founding partner of Weisberg & Meyers, LLC and the managing partner of the Firm's Florida and Illinois practices.

Mr. Weisberg has been practicing consumer protection litigation exclusively since November of 2000. Mr. Weisberg has participated in hundreds of consumer arbitration hearings and has tried to jury verdict dozens of consumer protection cases in Florida, Illinois, Texas, New Mexico and Washington. Mr. Weisberg has also prevailed on appeal in Florida on such landmark issues as ensuring lessees of vehicles have federal breach of warranty rights throughout the State of Florida, by ensuring consumers successful in Lemon Law arbitrations still have the right to pursue other legal damages in a court of law, and by preventing automobile manufacturers from denying consumers their day in court by through adhesive arbitration agreements.

Mr. Weisberg was licensed to practice law in the State of Illinois in May 2000 and was subsequently admitted to the United States District Court, Northern District of Illinois in December 2000 and the Central District on June of 2001. Mr. Weisberg was licensed to practice law in the State of Florida in May 2002 and was subsequently licensed to practice law in the United States District Courts for the Middle and Northern Districts of Florida.

Notable Trial Victories

A Texas jury awarded a consumer $10,054 in damages for an automobile manufacturer's violations of the federal Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act. Judy Whitworth v. General Motors Corporation, Cause # A-124-134 (70th Judicial District, Ector County, Texas).

An Illinois jury awarded a consumer a brand new vehicle as a result of an automobile manufacturer's violations of the federal Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act. Jenny Dow v. General Motors Corporation, Cause # 01 M1 103929 (Cook County, Illinois).

Notable Appellate Decisions

The United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit affirmed the district court's findings that a debt collector violated several provisions of the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, that the debt collector was unable to take advantage of the bona fide error defense to the consumer's claims, and that the consumer was entitled to the maximum statutory damage award available. Ponce v. BCA Fin. Services, Inc., 467 F. App'x 806, 809 (11th Cir. 2012).

The United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit endorsed a broad interpretation of the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act in finding that a "debt," as statutorily defined, is created where an obligation to pay arises from a transaction, even absent an extension of credit. Barry Oppenheim v. I.C. System, Inc., 627 F. 3d 833 (11th Cir. 2010).

Notable Trial Victories

- A Texas federal jury awarded a consumer $121,000 in damages for a debt collector's violations of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, the Texas Debt Collection Practices Act, and the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act. Guajardo v. GC Services, LP, 4:08-cv-00119 (S.D. Tex.).

Notable Appellate Decisions

Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals

- The United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit reversed the district court's ruling granting a debt collector's post-trial motions for judgment as a matter of law, to alter or amend the verdict, and for a new trial, and remanded the case to the district court to enter judgment in the consumer's favor. Guajardo v. GC Services, LP, 11-20269, 2012 WL 5419505 (5th Cir. Nov. 7, 2012).

Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals

- The United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, en banc, affirmed the district court's holding that the United States' sovereign immunity does not protect it, or its agencies, from liability under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act. Talley v. U.S. Dept. of Agric., 595 F.3d 754 (7th Cir. 2010), reh'g en banc granted, opinion vacated (June 10, 2010), on rehearing en banc (September 24, 2010), decision affirmed, 09-2123, 2010 WL 5887796 (7th Cir. Oct. 1, 2010).

Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals

- The United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit reversed the district court's award of attorneys' fees against a consumer, noting that the district court failed to make necessary findings prior to issuing the award. Sorensen v. Credit Int'l Corp., 475 F. App.x 244 (9th Cir. 2012).

Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals

- The United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit dismissed a debt collector's appeal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, finding that settlement of all claims mooted the litigation, and that the debt collector did not adequately preserve its right to appeal an interlocutory order where it ultimately consented to the judgment into which the interlocutory order merged. Yunker v. Allianceone Receivables Mgmt., Inc., 701 F.3d 369 (11th Cir. 2012).
- The United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit affirmed the district court's findings that a debt collector violated several provisions of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, that the debt collector was unable to take advantage of the bona fide error defense to the consumers claims, and that the consumer was entitled to the maximum statutory damage award available. Ponce v. BCA Fin. Services, Inc., 467 F. App.x 806, 809 (11th Cir. 2012).

- The United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit endorsed a broad interpretation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, finding that a “debt,” as statutorily defined, is created where an obligation to pay arises from a transaction, even absent an extension of credit. Oppenheim v. I.C. System, Inc., 627 F. 3d 833 (11th Cir. 2010).

Florida Supreme Court

- The Florida Supreme Court held that a consumer who resolves a legal action with a warrantor, pursuant to Florida’s offer of judgment statute, is a prevailing party under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act and may recover attorneys’ fees as allowed by that statute. Mady v. DaimlerChrysler Corp., 59 So. 3d 1129 (Fla. 2011).

Florida District Courts of Appeals

- The Fourth District Court of Appeals for the state of Florida reversed an award of attorneys’ fees and costs entered against a Florida consumer, finding that an automobile manufacturer’s formal offer of judgment failed to satisfy necessary substantive and procedural requirements. Cano v. Hyundai Motor Am., Inc., 8 So. 3d 408 (Fla. 4th DCA 2009).

Illinois District Courts of Appeals

- The Second District Court of Appeals for the state of Illinois reversed an order dismissing an Illinois consumer’s case for violation of the federal Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, holding that an automobile buyer’s ineligibility to participate in the manufacturer’s dispute resolution process did not deprive him of his right to file suit under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act. Jones v. Nissan N. Am., Inc., 385 Ill. App. 3d 740 (2d Dist. 2008).

Notable Class Action Litigation

- The United States District Court for the District of Arizona certified a class of approximately 423,000 individuals alleged injured by a debt collector’s violations of the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, and subsequently approved a settlement on behalf of class members located in Alaska, Arizona, California, Guam, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Northern Mariana Islands, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. Garro v. Global Credit & Collection Corporation, 09-cv-02506 (D. Ariz.).
- A prospective class of individuals alleged that Southwest Airlines flew 46 Boeing 737s, on more than 60,000 flights, in violation of federal air-safety regulations governing the maintenance and operation of aircraft. Billie Beason, et al v. Southwest Airlines, 09-cv-04145 (N.D. Ill.).

Marshall Meyers is a founding partner of Weisberg & Meyers, LLC and the Firm's managing partner. He has been featured by numerous media outlets on consumer protection issues including Phoenix television Channel 5, Phoenix television Channel 12, KTAR radio, and the Today Show.

Mr. Meyers has devoted his entire professional career to the practice of consumer rights litigation and has represented thousands of consumers throughout Arizona and the nation. Mr. Meyers has successfully argued before the Arizona Supreme Court and Arizona appellate courts, as well as United States District courts throughout the nation, and has tried numerous cases to successful judgment across the country.

Mr. Meyers offers "Pro Consumer" FDCPA Compliance consulting to debt collection companies demonstrating a genuine interest in complying with the Fair Debt Collection Laws the Firm enforces. However, unlike typical compliance consulting, which focuses on how best to collect without breaking fair debt laws, Mr. Meyers' consulting services advise on how best to comply with FDCPA regulations while still collecting. This consumer-centric approach analyzes existing collection methods from a consumer debtor's perspective, thereby offering the opportunity to identify and eradicate the very practices prompting aggrieved consumers to contact consumer protection firms like Weisberg and Meyers. Interested companies may contact Mr. Meyers for more information, but should be advised applications for services will not be considered if the Firm is currently engaged in litigation against the applying company.

- Martin and Barbara Garo v. Global Credit & Collection Corporation, 09-cv-02506 (D. Ariz.). - The United States District Court for the District of Arizona, in January of 2011, certified a class of approximately 50,000 individuals alleged injured by a debt collector's violations of the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act.
- Johnson v. Earnhardt's Gilbert Dodge, Inc., 212 Ariz. 381, 132 P.3d 825, Ariz., 2006. Arizona Supreme Court reversed trial court grant of summary judgment to dealer defendant, ruling a used car dealer may be a party to service contract with a consumer, thereby giving consumers implied warranty rights under federal law, even where dealer sales contract disclaims all implied warranties in sales contract.
- Muller v. Winnebago Industries, Inc., 318 F.Supp.2d 844 (D.Ariz. 2004). Arizona Federal court held Better Business Bureau Autoline program, which is wholly funded by the automotive industry, non-compliant with federal law based on failure to award incidental damages such as loss of use and aggravation and inconvenience damages, held consumer was not obligated to participate in Autoline program before filing suit.
